

Tennemann, Wilhelm Gottlieb: A Manual of the History of Philosophy. Übers. v. A. Johnson, Oxford: D. A. Talboys 1832. Mit Ergänzungen v. R. Morell, London: Henry G. Bohn 1852

Table of Contents

Translator's Preface.....	v
A Manual of the History of Philosophy.....	1
General Introduction.....	2
Chapter I. Character, Extend, Method, Importance, Division, and Bibliography of the History of Philosophy.....	2
Chapter II. Some Preliminary Observations on the Progress of Philosophic Reason.....	29
Particular Introduction. Rapid Review of the Religious and Philosophical Opinions of the Oriental Nations, and the First Periods of Grecian Civilization.....	37
Part the First. First Period. Greek and Roman Philosophy.....	54
Chapter First. From Thales to Socrates (First Period of Grecian Philosophy).....	57
Chapter Second. From Socrates to the End of the Contest between the Porch and the Academy (Second Epoch of Grecian Philosophy).....	90
Chapter Third. On the Philosophy of the Romans and the New Scepticism of Ænesidemus, down to the Time of Joannes Damascenus (from 60 B. C. – Till the End of the Eighth Century). (Third Epoch of Grecian Philosophy.).....	156
Part the Second. Second Period. History of the Philosophy of the Middle Ages, or, the Scholastic System; from the Commencement of the Ninth to the Sixteenth Century.....	218
First Period of the Scholastic Philosophy.....	223
Second Period of the Scholastic Philosophy.....	228
Third Period of the Scholastic Philosophy.....	232
Fourth Period of the Scholastic Doctrine.....	251
Part the Third. Third Period. Modern Philosophy. The Scholastic System Opposed by a Return to, and by new Combinations of, Former Systems of Philosophy.....	259
Original Essays and Particular Combinations of Philosophical Systems.....	279
Modern Philosophy. From the Seventeenth Century to our own Times.....	292
First Period. From Bacon to Kant. From the Seventeenth Century to the End of the Eighteenth.....	295
Attempts to Ground Philosophical Knowledge on Experiment.....	295
Rationalism of Descartes, and the Systems to which it gave rise.....	314
Progress of Scepticism in England and France.....	335

Progress of Philosophy in Germany.....	350
Adversaries of Wolf, and Eclectics.....	370
Opponents of Hume and Other Philosophers of the English and Scottish Schools.....	382
Second Period. From Kant to Our Own Times. Improvement Effectuated in Moral Philosophy by Means of the Critical Method.....	402
I. German Philosophy.....	402
Philosophy of Sentiment and Belief.	457
Chronological Table for the History of Philosophy from the Time of Tales.....	473
Index.....	489