

SYSTEM OF LOGIC

AND

HISTORY OF LOGICAL DOCTRINES.

BY

DR FRIEDRICH UEBERWEG,

PROFESSOR OF PHILOSOPHY IN THE UNIVERSITY OF KÖNIGSBERG.

TRANSLATED FROM THE GERMAN, WITH NOTES AND APPENDICES,

BY

THOMAS M. LINDSAY, M.A., F.R.S.E.,

EXAMINER IN PHILOSOPHY TO THE UNIVERSITY OF EDINBURGH.

LONDON:

LONGMANS, GREEN, AND CO.

1871.

CONTENTS.

INTRODUCTION.

Notion, Division, and General History of Logic.

	PAGE
§ 1. DEFINITION OF LOGIC ✓	1
§ 2. The forms of knowledge. Their double condition. Their relation to the contents of knowledge	3
§ 3. The end and aim of the activity of knowledge. Truth. Scientific knowledge	5
§ 4. The possibility of Logic as a science ✓	10
§ 5. The absolute and relative worth of Logic	10
§ 6. The place of Logic in the system of Philosophy ✓	11
§ 7. The study of Logic as a propaedeutic for other philosophical studies	15
§ 8. DIVISION OF LOGIC.	16
§ 9. The value of the HISTORY OF LOGIC	19
§ 10. The historical origin of Logic ✓	19
§ 11. The Ionic natural philosophers, the Pythagoreans, and the Eleatics	21
§ 12. The Sophists and Sokrates	25
§ 13. The one-sided Sokratic Schools	26
§ 14. Plato	27
§ 15. The Platonists	30
§ 16. ARISTOTLE	30
§ 17. The Peripatetics	34
§ 18. The Epikureans, Stoics, and Skeptics	35
§ 19. The Neo-Platonists	37
§ 20. The Christian Fathers. The Study of Dialectic in the Schools among Christians, Arabians, and Jews	37
§ 21. The Schoolmen	38
§ 22. The earlier times of the Reformation	41
§ 23. Bacon of Verulam	42
§ 24. Des Cartes	44
§ 25. Spinoza	47
§ 26. Locke	48
§ 27. Leibniz and Wolff	40

	PAGE
§ 28. Kant	54
§ 29. The Kantian School and allied tendencies. Fries. Herbart .	59
§ 30. Fichte, Schelling, and their School	61
§ 31. Hegel	63
§ 32. The Hegelian School	69
§ 33. Schleiermacher	69
§ 34. The latest German logicians	72
§ 35. Modern logicians beyond Germany	74

PART I.

Perception in its relation to Objective Existence in Space and Time.

§ 36. DEFINITION OF PERCEPTION	77
A.—EXTERNAL OR SENSE-PERCEPTION.
§ 37. Arguments against the agreement of sense-perception with what actually exists without	79
§ 38. The incorrectness of the Kantian separation of the matter and form of perception	80
§ 39. Upon the capacity to know the existence of objects affecting us grounded on sense-perception	83
B.—INTERNAL OR PSYCHOLOGICAL PERCEPTION.
§ 40. The agreement of the inner perception with the perceived reality	84
C.—THE COMBINATION OF OUTER AND INNER PERCEPTION.
§ 41. The knowledge of the plurality of animate existences . . .	91
§ 42. The knowledge of the gradual series of existences—Science, Faith, Presentiment, Opinion, &c.	93
§ 43. The reality of Matter and Power	97
§ 44. The reality of Space and Time	99

PART II.

The Individual Conception or Intuition in its relation to the Objective Individual Existence.

§ 45. DEFINITION OF INDIVIDUAL CONCEPTION OF INTUITION. .	110
§ 46. The distinction of individuals by means of individual con- ceptions	111

	PAGE
§ 47. The forms of individual conception and existence. The CATEGORIES in the ARISTOTELIAN sense. The parallelism between the forms of individual existence, forms of conception, and the parts of speech	114
§ 48. Clear and distinct conception	125
§ 49. Attributes—The parts of a conception	125
§ 50. The content of a conception. Its partition	126

PART III.

The Notion according to Content and Extent in its relation to the Objective Essence and the Genus.

§ 51. Attention and Abstraction. The General Conception	127
§ 52. Determination	130
§ 53. Extent. Division. The relations of conceptions to each other according to extent and content	130
§ 54. The relation between content and extent	135
§ 55. The graduated series (pyramid) of conceptions	138
§ 56. DEFINITION OF THE NOTION. The essence	139
§ 57. The knowledge of the essential. The à priori and à posteriori elements in the formation of the notion	152
§ 58. Class, Genus, Species, &c. Their reality and their knowability	155
§ 59. The individual notion	159
§ 60. DEFINITION. Its elements—the notion of Genus and Specific Difference	160
§ 61. The KINDS of definition	164
§ 62. The most notable faults in definition	172
§ 63. DIVISION. The ground of division. The members of division: Dichotomy, Trichotomy, &c.	177
§ 64. Subdivision, and co-ordinate division	182
§ 65. The most notable faults in division	183
§ 66. The connection between the formation of notions and the other functions of cognitive thinking	185

PART IV.

The Judgment in its reference to the Objective Fundamental Combinations or Relations.

§ 67. The DEFINITION OF THE JUDGMENT	187
§ 68. Simple and complex judgments. The individual relations of the judgment, and their reference to the corresponding

	PAGE
relations of existence. The CATEGORIES of RELATION in the KANTIAN sense	195
§ 69. QUALITY and MODALITY of judgments	206
§ 70. QUANTITY of judgments	214
§ 71. Combination of divisions according to Quality and Quantity. The four forms of judgment A, E, I, and O	216
§ 72. Contradictory and contrary opposition between two judgments. Subalternation	219
§ 73. The Matter and Form of judgments	221

PART V.

Inference in its relation to the Objective Reign of Law.

§ 74. DEFINITION OF INFERENCE	225
§ 75. THE PRINCIPLES OF INFERENCE in general	228
§ 76. The axiom of Identity	231
§ 77. The axiom of Contradiction	235
§ 78. The axiom of Excluded Third or Middle between two judgments opposed as contradictories	260
§ 79. The combination of the axioms of Contradiction and Excluded Third in the principle of Contradictory Disjunction	275
§ 80. The relations between judgments whose predicates are opposed as contraries. Dialectical Opposition. The axiom of the Third lying in the Middle between two contrary opposites. The axiom of the union of coincidence of opposites	278
§ 81. The axiom of sufficient reason	281
§ 82. The forms of IMMEDIATE inference in general	287
§ 83. The analytical formation of the judgment. The synthetic formation of a judgment	289
§ 84. Conversion in general. Its internal authorisation	294
§ 85. Conversion of the universal affirmative judgment	297
§ 86. Conversion of the particular affirmative judgment	304
§ 87. Conversion of the universal negative judgment	306
§ 88. The impossibility of the conversion of the particular negative judgment	311
§ 89. Contraposition in general. Its inner authorisation	313
§ 90. Contraposition of the universal affirmative judgment	314
§ 91. Contraposition of the universal negative judgment	317
§ 92. Contraposition of the particular negative judgment	318
§ 93. The impossibility of the contraposition of the particular affirmative judgment	319
§ 94. Change of Relation	323
§ 95. Subalternation	325

	PAGE
§ 96. (Qualitative) Æquipollence	326
§ 97. Opposition	328
§ 98. Modal Consequence	331
§ 99. MEDIATE INFERENCE. Syllogism and Induction	333
§ 100. The simple and complex SYLLOGISM. The parts of the syllogism. Their relation	335
§ 101. Syllogism as a form of knowledge. Its relation to the real reign of law	337
§ 102. The SIMPLE Categorical syllogism. Its three terms	350
§ 103. The three chief classes (figures in the more comprehensive sense), or four divisions (figures in the narrower sense) of the simple categorical syllogism	352
§ 104. The different forms of combination of the premises. The Moods	377
§ 105. Comparison of spheres as a criterion of capability for inference	379
§ 106. Ex mere negativis nihil sequitur. The forms of combination EF, OE, EO, OO, cut off	382
§ 107. Ex mere particularibus nihil sequitur. The forms of combination II, OI, IO, cut off	385
§ 108. The combination of a particular major premise with a negative minor does not give an inference. The form of combination IE cut off	388
§ 109. The First Figure in the stricter sense. The forms of combination IA, OA, AE, AO, cut off	391
§ 110. The First Mood of the First Figure:—Barbara	394
§ 111. The other Moods of the First Figure:—Celarent, Darii, Ferio	408
§ 112. The Second Figure. The forms of combination IA, OA, AA, AI, cut off	411
§ 113. The valid Moods of the Second Figure:—Cesare, Camestres, Festino, Baroco	413
§ 114. The Third Figure. The forms of combination AE and AO cut off	420
§ 115. The valid Moods of the Third Figure:—Darapti, Felapton, Disamis, Datisi, Bocardo, Ferison	421
§ 116. The Fourth Figure. The forms of combination OA, AO, AI, cut off	427
§ 117. The valid Moods of the Fourth Figure, or of the second division of the First Figure in the wider sense:—Bamalip, Calemes, Dimatis, Fesapo, Fresison	429
§ 118. Comparative view of the different Figures and Moods. The form of the conclusion. The Moods Barbari, Celarent; Cesaro, Camestros; Calemos. The relative value of the different forms. The names of the whole of the Moods	435
§ 119. The Modality of the Syllogism	439
§ 120. The Substitution of one notion for another in an objective or attributive relation. The syllogism from two simple

	PAGE
categorical judgments reduced to the Principle of Substitution	442
§ 121. The syllogism from subordinately complex and especially from hypothetical premises	446
§ 122. Mixed inferences from an hypothetical and a categorical premise, or the so-called Hypothetical Syllogism	451
§ 123. Mixed inferences with co-ordinate opposed premises, and especially with a disjunctive premise. The Dilemma, Trilemma, Polylemma, or the so-called Horned Syllogism	455
§ 124. Complex Inferences. The chain of inference. The Prosyllogism and Episylogism	463
§ 125. Simple and complex inferences expressed in an abridged form. The Enthymeme. The Epicheirema. The Chain Syllogism, or Sorites	466
§ 126. Paralogisms and Sophisms	470
§ 127. INDUCTION in general	476
§ 128. Perfect Induction	481
§ 129. Imperfect Induction	483
§ 130. The most notable errors in Induction	490
§ 131. Inference by ANALOGY	491
§ 132. Determination of DEGREES OF PROBABILITY	502
§ 133. The MATERIAL TRUTH of the premises and of the conclusions	504
§ 134. HYPOTHESIS	505
§ 135. PROOF	521
§ 136. Refutation. Investigation. Problem	526
§ 137. The most notable errors in Proof	530

PART VI.

System in its relation to the Order of Objective Totality of Things.

§ 138. DEFINITION OF SYSTEM. The law of thought of the totality	540
§ 139. The Principle. Analysis and synthesis	542
§ 140. The analytic (or regressive) method	547
§ 141. The synthetic (or constructive) method	553

Appendix A. On recent logical speculation in England	557
Appendix B. On the Quantification of the Predicate	579
Appendix C. On the doctrine of the Essence	584
Appendix D. On the fundamental principles of Ethics	586