

THE MORAL IDEAL IN ANCIENT EGYPT
A STUDY IN CLASSICAL AFRICAN ETHICS

MAULANA KARENZA

Table of Contents

Table of Contents vii

Preface xiii

Foreword xvii

Chapter 1

The Maatian Ideal:

A Conceptual Framework 3

- 1.1 Introduction 3
- 1.2 Maat: The Conceptual Ideal 5
- 1.3 Conceptual Assumptions of the Study 11
 - 1.3.1 Stance and Tradition 11
 - 1.3.2 Difference from Egyptology 11
 - 1.3.3 The Open Texture of Maatian Discourse 12
 - 1.3.4 Beyond the Eurocentric Approach 13
 - 1.3.5 Toward An African-Centered Approach 15
 - 1.3.6 The Unity and Diversity of Tradition 18
 - 1.3.7 Continuity and Development 23
- 1.4 Tasks and Delimitations of the Study 25

Chapter 2

The Maatian Ideal:

From the Old Kingdom to the Middle Kingdom 29

- 2.1 Introduction: Formative Context 29
 - 2.1.1 The Decisive Factor of Kingship 30
 - 2.1.2 Civil Service and Social Ethics 34
 - 2.1.3 A Context of Peace and Stability 37
 - 2.1.4 The Economic Conditions 38
- 2.2 The Evolution of the Maatian Ideal: The Old Kingdom 41
 - 2.2.1 The Pyramid Texts 42
 - 2.2.2 The Declarations of Virtue 44
 - 2.2.3 The Sebait 53

2.3	Maat in the First Intermediate Period	55
2.3.1	The Declarations of Virtue (DOV)	56
2.3.2	The Sebait	60
2.4	Maat in the Middle Kingdom	63
2.4.1	The Coffin Texts	63
2.4.2	The Declarations of Virtue	65
2.4.3	The Moral Narrative	69
2.4.4	The Books of Contemplation	71

Chapter 3

The Maatian Ideal:From the New Kingdom to the Late Period 77

3.1	Maat in the New Kingdom	77
3.1.1	Early Phase: Formative Context	77
3.1.2	Early Phase: Autobiographies	82
3.1.3	The Amarna Period: Autobiographies	88
3.1.4	The Restoration	92
3.1.5	The Ramessid Period	93
3.1.5.1	Introduction: Piety and Ethics	93
3.1.5.2	The Sebait	96
3.2	Maat in the Late Period	104
3.2.1	Introduction	104
3.2.2	The Early Phase: Autobiographies	106
3.2.3	The Nubian Period: Autobiographies	110
3.2.4	The Saite Period: Autobiographies	115
3.2.5	The Persian Periods and the Last Independence	116
3.3	Maat in the Greek and Roman Periods	120
3.3.1	The Autobiographies	120
3.3.2	The Sebait	129

Chapter 4

Maatian Theology:The Declarations of Innocence 135

4.1	Introduction	135
4.2	The Textual Locus	136
4.3	The Theological Setting	138
4.4	The Transliteration and Translation	141
4.4.1	The Introduction	141
4.4.1.1	The Transliteration	141
4.4.1.2	The Translation	142

4.4.2	Declarations of Innocence (A)	142
4.4.2.1	The Transliteration	142
4.4.2.2	The Translation	144
4.4.3	Declarations of Innocence (B)	145
4.4.3.1	The Transliteration	145
4.4.3.2	The Translation	146
4.4.4	Address to the Divine Ones	147
4.4.4.1	The Transliteration	147
4.4.4.2	The Translation	147
4.5	The Sitz im Leben of the DOI	148
4.6	Maatian Moral Theology	156
4.6.1	Fundamental Concepts	156
4.6.2	Evolution of the Idea of Judgment	162
	Translation Notes for the Declarations	174

Chapter 5

Maatian Ontology 175

5.1	Introduction	175
5.2	The Potentiality and Power of Being	177
5.2.1	Creative Becoming	177
5.2.2	The Self-Affirmation of Life	184
5.2.3	The Creative Character of Speech	187
5.3	The Orderedness of Being	191
5.3.1	The Created Order of Maat	191
5.3.2	The Social Order of Maat	193
5.4	The Continuity of Being	195
5.4.1	The Creative Source of Being	195
5.4.2	Differentiation in Unity	196
5.4.3	Being and the Transmission of Essence	197
5.5	The Essential Goodness of Being	198
5.5.1	The Ontological Anchor of Maat	198
5.5.2	Cooperative Character of Being	200
5.5.3	Being and Evil	203
5.6	The Eternalness of Being	207
5.6.1	The Telos of Being	207
5.6.2	The Dynamic Character of Being	209

Chapter 6Maatian Anthropology 215

- 6.1 Introduction 215
- 6.2 The Divine Image of Humans 216
 - 6.2.1 Pharaonic Divinity 216
 - 6.2.2 Divine Filiation 219
 - 6.2.3 Shared Essence 220
 - 6.2.4 Irt mi R^c (Imitatio Dei) 222
 - 6.2.5 Snn N^r (Imago Dei) 225
- 6.3 The Perfectibility of Humans 230
 - 6.3.1 Conceptual Implications 230
 - 6.3.2 Assimilation with God 231
 - 6.3.3 Essential Goodness of Human Nature 233
 - 6.3.4 Potentially and Maatian Practice 235
- 6.4 The Teachability of Humans 236
 - 6.4.1 Moral Wisdom 236
 - 6.4.2 The Wise Person and the Fool 237
 - 6.4.3 The Geru Maa 239
 - 6.4.4 Tension Between Nature and Nurture 240
 - 6.4.5 Ignorance and Moral Failure 242
 - 6.4.6 The Problematic of Ignorance 245
- 6.5 The Free Will of Humans 246
 - 6.5.1 Introduction 246
 - 6.5.2 The Ib (Heart/Mind) 248
 - 6.5.3 The Ba 250
 - 6.5.4 The Issue of Destiny 251
 - 6.5.5 Conclusion 253
- 6.6 The Sociality of Humans 254
 - 6.6.1 Relationality and Practice 254
 - 6.6.2 The Communal Context 257
 - 6.6.3 Life-Affirming Anthropology 258

Chapter 7The Way of Worthiness 263

- 7.1 Introduction 263
- 7.2 The Maatian Way of Life 266
 - 7.2.1 Location: The Communal Context 269
 - 7.2.2 The Ground of Tradition 272
- 7.3 Moral and Social Worthiness: Quest and Claim 278
 - 7.3.1 Having a Good Name 278
 - 7.3.2 Being Worthy 280
 - 7.3.3 Being Loved 282

7.4	The DOI: Rules Without Commandments	288
7.5	Im3h Hr Ntr —Worthiness Before God	294
7.5.1	Worship: Reverence, Ritual and Virtue	294
7.5.2	Service to Others as Service to God	301
7.5.3	Offering Maat	302
7.5.4	Maat and Reciprocity	306
Chapter 8
Worthiness Before People		311
8.1	Introduction	311
8.2	The Maatian Concept of Human Dignity	317
8.3	General Moral Concerns	325
8.4	Social Justice and the Vulnerable	332
8.5	The Moral Considerability of the Stranger	338
8.6	The Moral Status of Women	342
8.7	The Relationality-Responsibility Paradigm	362
8.8	Character and the Maatian Person	373
Chapter 9
Worthiness Before Nature		381
9.1	Introduction	381
9.2	The Unity of Being	385
9.3	Guardianship and Filial Obligation	391
9.4	The Shared Heritage	395
9.5	Restoration (Serudj Ta)	397
9.6	Obligations to the Future	402
Chapter 10
Conclusion		407
Abbreviations 411
References 413
Index 449		