

A History of Philosophy

MARTIN J. WALSH

GEOFFREY CHAPMAN

LONDON

Contents

Preface

vii

Part One: Ancient Greek and Roman philosophy

1	The pre-Socratic philosophers	1
2	The Sophist and Socratic period	16
3	Plato (I)	23
4	Plato (II)	35
5	Aristotle (I)	46
6	Aristotle (II)	58
7	Hellenistic and Roman philosophy	75
8	Early Christian philosophy	90

Part Two: Medieval philosophy: the Scholastic syntheses (seventh to seventeenth centuries)

9	The formation of Scholasticism	103
10	The thirteenth-century Scholastics: pre-Thomistic thought	114
11	St Thomas Aquinas	124
12	Thirteenth-century cross-currents	141
13	Duns Scotus	151
14	The fourteenth century: William of Ockham	162
15	New trends and reactions in the late Middle Ages	181
16	The revival of Scholasticism: Suárez	207

Part Three: 'Modern' philosophy: the Age of Reason: Descartes to Kant

17	Descartes	221
18	Theocentric thinkers and rationalist systems	232
19	Empiricism in Britain (I): the seventeenth century	253

20	Empiricism in Britain (II): the eighteenth century	271
21	The Enlightenment	287
22	Kant (I): Kant's critique of theoretical thought: on experiential knowledge and metaphysical synthesis	306
23	Kant (II): Kant's critiques of practical thought and discerning judgement: on morality, religion and discernment	324

Part Four: The nineteenth century

24	Absolute idealism	337
25	From Schleiermacher to Nietzsche	352
26	Nineteenth-century philosophy in Britain	372
27	Idealism and pragmatism in America	390
28	'The human condition': philosophy in France (I)	408
29	'The human condition': philosophy in France (II)	426
30	Nineteenth-century thought in other countries	445

Part Five: Contemporary philosophy

31	Positivism and idealism: continuity and change	463
32	Twentieth-century thought in Britain and America (I)	478
33	Twentieth-century thought in Britain and America (II)	493
34	Phenomenology	517
35	Existentialism	532
36	Philosophy of being	555

	Bibliography	573
--	---------------------	-----

	Index	607
--	-------	-----