

An Introduction to ANCIENT PHILOSOPHY

by

A. H. ARMSTRONG

METHUEN & CO. LTD. LONDON

36 Essex Street, Strand, W.C.2

Contents

PAGE
xv

INTRODUCTION.

Where to begin and end a history of ancient philosophy :
plan of the present book.

I. THE BEGINNINGS OF GREEK PHILOSOPHY. MILESIAINS AND ITALIANS.

1

What philosophy meant to the ancients: the desires behind their search for truth: Ionia: Milesian philosophy: Thales, Anaximander, Anaximenes: the Milesians, mythology and science. South Italy: Orphism: the Pythagorean Brotherhood: early Pythagorean teaching: permanent contributions to philosophy of Pythagoreans and Milesians.

II. THE LATER PRE-SOCRATICS.

9

[Heraclitus: change and conflict: the Logos. Parmenides: relation to Xenophanes and Pythagoreans: beginning of logical reasoning: the One Reality: the World of Appearances. The Pluralists: Pythagorean "atomists": Zeno's paradoxes: Empedocles: Anaxagoras: the Atomists, Leucippus and Democritus: the Hippocratic medical school and philosophy: Plato and the Pre-Socratics.

III. THE SOPHISTS AND SOCRATES.

21

Traditional character of Greek religion and morality: partial breakdown of tradition in the fifth century: part played by Ionian philosophy: the Sophists: object, nature and results of Sophistic teaching: reaction of the traditionalists. Socrates: the evidence about him: the "Socratic Conversation": his life and character: his teaching: the soul as intellectual and moral personality: Socrates's religion: "virtue is knowledge": the Socratic method.]

IV. PLATO (1). LIFE AND WRITINGS. THE FORMS AND THE SOUL.

33

[Plato the source and originator of European metaphysics: his life: the Academy: the Dialogues: the Platonic Myth: change of style in the later Dialogues: chronological order of Plato's writings. Plato's teaching: Socratic and Pythagorean elements: the Forms or Ideas: extent of the World of Forms: the Form of the Good: "participation": the Forms and the soul: nature and immortality of the soul: pre-existence and Recollection: Plato's theory of knowledge: the three parts of the soul: the rule of reason: Eros.

V. PLATO (2). STRUCTURE OF THE WORLD OF FORMS: MAKING OF THE VISIBLE WORLD. THEOLOGY.

44

Reality a series of ordered worlds: the hierarchy of Forms: thought and the World of Forms: Dialectic: difference between Dialectic and Aristotle's Logic: latest developments of the doctrine of Forms. Soul as intermediary between the World of Forms and the world of the senses: Soul as self-mover and intelligent directing power: the Craftsman of the "Timaeus": Platonic and Christian theology compared: the three elements in the making of the world, Pattern, Maker, and Material: the irrational element in the universe: meaning of Necessity: evil: the making of Soul and Body: goodness of the visible universe.

VI. PLATO (3). MORAL AND POLITICAL TEACHING.

53

Plato's development of Socrates's moral teaching in the light of his own theories of Forms and Soul: Plato's "other-worldliness": the rule of reason, persuasion, and the function of the higher emotions: emotional training: the place of the arts in education: the four cardinal virtues: Political teaching: the philosopher's duty to society: the Sicilian experiment: microcosm and macrocosm: the city-state: cycles of becoming and inevitable decadence: Plato's conservatism: respect for the given material: the "Republic": the "Laws": the process of political decadence: influence of Plato's upbringing and environment on his thought: what European philosophy owes to Plato.

VII. ARISTOTLE (1). LIFE AND WORKS. THE ACADEMY AFTER PLATO'S DEATH. LOGIC. CRITICISM OF PLATO.

66

Aristotle's early life, medical family tradition and Macedonian connection: Aristotle and Plato: the Academy after Plato's death: Speusippus: Xenocrates: Aristotle's later life: the Lyceum: Aristotle's works, lost and surviving. Logic: scientific demonstration. Aristotle's criticism of the Theory of Forms and its implications.

VIII. ARISTOTLE (2). BASIC IDEAS AND PHILOSOPHY OF NATURE.

77

The things revealed by our senses real and knowable: problem of stability and change in the sense-world: Substance: Form and Matter: individuality: Act and Potency: Substance and Accident: generation, destruction, change and motion: the Four Causes: Aristotle's doctrine of purpose in the universe: determinism and freedom: Aristotle's universe: the sublunary world: the celestial spheres: meaning of Nature.

IX. ARISTOTLE (3). THEOLOGY AND PSYCHOLOGY.

87

Subject of Theology or Metaphysics: demonstration of existence of an Unmoved Mover: Unmoved Mover a Mind: nature of its thought: how it causes motion: Multiplicity of Unmoved Movers: comparison of the theology of Aristotle with the natural theology of S. Thomas. Psychology: soul as form of the body: soul in plants, animals and men: unity of soul and inseparability of soul and body: sensation: special senses: the "common" sense: the image-making faculty: error: thought: the concept: passive reason and separable reason: pneuma, the material intermediary between soul and body.

X. ARISTOTLE (4). ETHICS AND POLITICS.

99

Politics the supreme practical science: relation to it of Ethics: nature of the subject-matter of Ethics and its consequent difference from other sciences: the end of man: meaning of eudæmonia: "activity of the soul in accordance with virtue": moral virtue: the mean: Aristotle's final moral standard: the particular virtues and vices: will, choice and freedom: Aristotle and Socrates: pleasure: contemplation: the Aristotelian pattern: contemplation as the end of moral life. Politics: limitation of Aristotle's view: his collection of constitutions: necessity of the State: State and family: slavery: private property: economics: citizenship a full-time occupation: character and size of the citizen body: classification of constitutions: the "mixed" constitution: education: Aristotle's influence and school.

XI. HELLENISTIC PHILOSOPHIES (1). CYNICS AND STOICS

114

The Hellenistic world: political, intellectual and spiritual changes: increased feeling of isolation and insecurity: the new type of dogmatism. Origins of Stoicism: ancient philosophical pedigrees: Antisthenes: other minor Socratics: Cynic teaching and way of life: Crates and Zeno: possible non-Greek influences on Stoicism: our information about early Stoic teaching: Stoic logic: theory of knowledge: the categories: Stoic physics and theology: influence of Aristotle, Plato and the Pre-Socratics: the Divine Fire: the Ruling Principle: the universal cycle: determinism. Stoic Ethics: the human soul: conformity with reason: reason and emotion: the Sage: the life according to nature: things "preferred" and "deprecated": Stoics and public life: Stoic cosmopolitanism.

XII. HELLENISTIC PHILOSOPHIES (2). EPICUREANS AND SCEPTICS.

130

Epicurus: life and works: general character and influence of Epicureanism: fundamental differences from Stoicism: Canon: the criteria or tests of truth: Epicurean theories of sensation and knowledge: Epicurean physics: Democritean and Epicurean Atomism: the "swerve": trustworthiness of the senses: Epicurean theology. Epicurean ethics: pleasure: friendship: Epicureans and public life. The Sceptical reaction from dogmatism: Pyrrho: the Sceptical Academy, Arcesilas and Carneades.

	PAGE
XIII. PHILOSOPHY OF THE EARLIER ROMAN EMPIRE. THE REVIVAL OF PLATONISM.	141
Developments to end of second century A.D.: later history of Epicureans and Sceptics: Eclecticism: modifications of Stoicism: Pantaeius: Posidonius: general world-view of later pagan philosophy: Stoics of the Empire: Seneca, Musonius Rufus, Epictetus, Marcus Aurelius. Return to dogmatism in the Academy: Antiochus of Ascalon: the Alexandrian Eclectics: the scholarly study of philosophy, doxographers and commentators. Middle Platonism: divergent opinions and attitudes: the Forms as thoughts of God: origins of this doctrine: intermediaries: the visible universe: evil: transcendence of God: mysticism: Middle Platonist ethics. Note on Cicero as translator and transmitter.
XIV. THE BEGINNINGS OF GREEK-CHRISTIAN THOUGHT. PHILO. THE APOLOGISTS.	157
Relationship of philosophy and theology in Pagan and Christian thought. Hellenised Judaism: Philo: his allegorical method: doctrine of intermediary powers: the Logos: pneuma and the image of God: Philo's mysticism. The Apologists: purpose of their writings: St. Justin: his doctrine of the Logos.
XV. TERTULLIAN. THE SCHOOL OF ALEXANDRIA.	168
Tertullian the Christian materialist: orthodox doctrine of Creation: emanation-metaphors: Subordinationism. The School of Alexandria: Pantaeus. Clement: attitude to Greek philosophy: Platonic and Stoic elements in his moral and ascetical teaching: the "gnostic." Origin: life and character: importance of his work: Christian Platonism: the spirituality of God: the Trinity: the community of created spirits: the fall and the material creation: cosmic cycles and reincarnation: the Restoration of all things: Redemption by Christ.
XVI. PLOTINUS (1). WRITINGS AND LIFE. THE ONE. THE DIVINE MIND.	175
Porphyry's biography and edition: character and arrangement of the Enneads: Plotinus's life: Ammonius Saccas: the school at Rome: general character of Plotinus's philosophy: complexities and tensions of his thought: philosophical religion. The One: negative and positive approaches: mysticism of Plotinus. Emanation and contemplation: the Divine Mind: the World of Forms according to Plotinus: individuality, life, unity-in-multiplicity: Plotinus's "God".
XVII. PLOTINUS (2). THE SOUL AND THE MATERIAL UNIVERSE.	189
Differences between Plotinus and Middle Platonism: Soul transcendent and immanent: the higher Soul and the Divine Mind: the Logos: lower Soul or Nature: universal

Soul and individual souls: embodiment, sin and the spiritual life: Nature's contemplation: the forms in bodies: matter and evil: the material universe, living and organic: the universal harmony: Plotinus's moral teaching.

XVIII. THE LATER NEO-PLATONISTS. 197

Porphyry: transformation of Neo-Platonism by Iamblichus: the Eastern schools: Western Neo-Platonism and Middle Platonist survivals: Neo-Platonism and pagan theology. Proclus: principles on which Plotinus's thought was transformed and elaborated: triads: the "law of mean terms": "orders" and "series": the Divine Henads: mysticism replaced by theurgy: basic principle of theurgy: matter and the One: evil: influence of Proclus. Damascius: the Ineffable First Principle. The Neo-Platonist Commentators on Aristotle.

XIX. ST. AUGUSTINE AND THE TRANSMUTATION OF ANCIENT THOUGHT. 205

Adaptation of Hellenic thought to Christian purposes in fourth and fifth centuries A.D.: St. Augustine: the "Christian Plato": thought and personal experience: life and spiritual development: early influence of Christianity: Manichæism: Neo-Platonism: scepticism: Augustine and Plotinus: Augustine's writings. Augustine's thought: God, Unity, Being, Trinity, Creator: the Christian use of Plotinus. Radical insufficiency of things created and helplessness of fallen man: Creation: order and harmony: absolute dependence: the "rationes seminales": the nature of time. The soul: knowledge: truth: illumination: will, love and choice: grace: love and human society: the Two Cities. Conclusion.

TABLE OF DATES 223

A NOTE ON THE SOURCES 224

A SHORT BOOK LIST 226

INDEX 234