

MEDIEVAL PHILOSOPHY

ARMAND A. MAURER, C.S.B., PH.D.

Professor of Philosophy

Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, Toronto

RANDOM HOUSE · NEW YORK

Contents

	Page
Introduction to A History of Philosophy —Etienne Gilson	vii
Preface to Medieval Philosophy —Etienne Gilson	xi
AUTHOR'S FOREWORD	xv

Part One

The Age of the Fathers

I. St. Augustine	3
Wisdom the Goal of Life	3
Faith and Reason: The Means to Wisdom	4
The Problem of Certitude	5
The Soul	8
Knowledge	10
The Nature of God	12
Creation	13
Ethical Notions	16
The City of God	18
Conclusion	20
II. Boethius	22
Philosophy and Its Divisions	22
God	25
The Soul and Knowledge	25
The Problem of Universals	27
The Structure of Reality	30
Free Will and Providence	32
Conclusion	33
III. John Scotus Erigena	35
Philosophy and Faith	36
The Division of Nature	37
God and Creation	39

The Divine Ideas	40
Man and the Universe	42
The Return to God	44
IV. St. Anselm	47
Faith and Reason	49
The Existence of God	49
Gaunilon's Objections	52
Truth	54
The Will and Liberty	56
V. Peter Abelard	59
Faith and Reason	59
Doctrine of Universals	61
Knowledge	65
Ethics	68
VI. The School of Chartres	71
Doctrines	72
Efficient Cause	73
Formal Cause	74
Final Cause	77
Material Cause	78
John of Salisbury	79

Part Two

The Coming of the Schoolmen

VII. Introduction to Scholasticism	85
The New Translations	86
Ecclesiastical Prohibitions	88
Scholasticism	90
VIII. Arabian and Jewish Philosophy	93
Arabian Philosophy	93
Avicenna	94
Averroes	100
Jewish Philosophy	104

CONTENTS

Ibn Gabirol	104
Moses Maimonides	106
IX. Early Philosophy at Paris and Oxford	110
William of Auvergne	111
Criticism of Avicenna	112
God and Existence	113
The Soul and Knowledge	115
Robert Grosseteste	118
Scientific Method	119
The Metaphysics of Light	122
 Part Three
The Age of the Schoolmen
X. Roger Bacon	127
The Critic	128
The Reformer	130
The Philosopher	134
XI. St. Bonaventure	137
The Early Franciscan School	137
St. Bonaventure	138
I. Philosophy in the Service of Love	138
II. Christian Metaphysics	141
1. Creation	141
2. Exemplarism	145
3. Consummation: The Road Back	147
Conclusion	151
XII. St. Albert the Great	153
Attitude toward Philosophy	154
Man and Human Knowledge	156
Metaphysical Notions	160
XIII. St. Thomas Aquinas	163
The Office of a Wise Man	163
The Existence of God	166

Our Knowledge of God	168
Creation	171
The Structure of Created Being	175
Man	179
Knowledge and Truth	182
The Will and Morality	185
Conclusion	189
 XIV. Latin Averroism	 192
Siger of Brabant	194
Boetius of Dacia	199
The Condemnation of 1277	204
 XV. The Reaction to Thomism	 208
The "Correctives" of Thomism	209
Essence and Existence	210
The Plurality of Forms	213
Divine Illumination	217
 XVI. John Duns Scotus	 220
The Limitations of Philosophy	220
The Existence of God	222
How We Know God	227
The Divine Attributes	229
The Divine Ideas and Creation	230
The Structure of Created Being	233
Man	237

Part Four

The Modern Way

XVII. The New Logic and Physics	245
New Developments in Logic	245
Supposition of Terms	246
Syncategorematic Terms	248
Speculative Grammar	251
The New Physics	254
Physics at Oxford	256
Physics at Paris	260

CONTENTS

XVIII.	William of Ockham and Fourteenth-Century Nominalism	265
	William of Ockham	266
	Theology and Philosophy	266
	God	269
	The Divine Attributes	271
	The Divine Ideas	275
	Reality and Universals	277
	Knowledge	281
	“Ockham’s Razor”	284
	Ethics	285
	Nominalism after Ockham	287
XIX.	Master Eckhart and Speculative Mysticism	292
	Master Eckhart	292
	God	292
	Creation	296
	Man	299
	The Citadel of the Soul	300
	The Condemnation of Eckhart	302
	Disciples of Eckhart	303
	Modern Devotion	307
XX.	Nicholas of Cusa	310
	Learned Ignorance	311
	God, the Coincidence of Opposites	313
	The Universe, or Relative Maximum	317
	Man, the Microcosm	321
	Conclusion	323

Part Five

The Middle Ages and Renaissance Philosophy

XXI.	Marsilio Ficino and Pietro Pomponazzi	327
	Marsilio Ficino and the Platonic Academy	328
	God as Unity	330
	The Immortality of the Soul	332
	Platonic Love	335

CONTENTS

Pietro Pomponazzi	337
The Problem of the Soul	338
Ethical Notions	342
Religion and Philosophy	344
 XXII. Renaissance Scholasticism. Francis Suarez	 347
John Capreolus	348
Italian Dominicans	349
Franciscan Followers of Duns Scotus	351
Spanish and Portuguese Dominicans	353
Spanish Carmelites	354
Spanish and Portuguese Jesuits	355
Francis Suarez	356
Metaphysics and the Concept of Being	357
Distinction of Essence and Existence	359
The Problem of Universals	362
The Existence of God	365
The Nature of Law	367
 CONCLUSION	 373
 Notes and References
Abbreviations	380
General Bibliography	381
Notes	384
 Index	 427