

RUSSIAN THOUGHT AFTER COMMUNISM

THE RECOVERY OF A PHILOSOPHICAL
HERITAGE

Edited by
JAMES P. SCANLAN

M.E. Sharpe
Armonk, New York
London England

Contents

About the Editor and the Contributors	ix
Preface	xi
George L. Kline: An Appreciation	xiii
I. Overview	3
1. The Return of Russian Philosophy Stanislav Bemovich Dzhimbinov	11
II. The Nineteenth Century Revisited	23
2. Interpretations and Uses of Slavophilism in Recent Russian Thought James P. Scanlan	31
3. Toward the New Millennium: Ideas of Resurrection in Fedorov and Solov'ev George M. Young, Jr.	62
III. The Silver Age in Postcommunist Perspective	73
4. Russian Philosophers of the Silver Age as Critics of Marxism Andrzej Walicki	81
5. The Philosophy of Freedom of Nikolai Berdiaev Piama P. Gaidenko	104
6. Merezhkovskii's Readings of Tolstoi: Their Contemporary Relevance Bernice Glatzer Rosenthal	121

IV. Russian Émigré Thought Reclaimed	147
7. Lev Shestov and the Revival of Religious Thought in Russia Taras D. Zakydalsky	153
8. The Complex Legacy of Ivan Il'in Philip T. Grier	165
V. Finding Philosophy Under Soviet Rule	187
9. Aleksei Losev and the Phenomenology of Music Alexander Haardt	197
10. The Making of M.M. Bakhtin as Philosopher Caryl Emerson	206
Index	227