

Thinking the Unconscious

Nineteenth-Century German Thought

---

Edited by

Angus Nicholls and Martin Liebscher

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

---

Notes on contributors	page vii
Introduction: thinking the unconscious ANGUS NICHOLLS AND MARTIN LIEBSCHER	1
1. The unconscious from the Storm and Stress to Weimar classicism: the dialectic of time and pleasure PAUL BISHOP	26
2. The philosophical significance of Schelling's conception of the unconscious ANDREW BOWIE	57
3. The scientific unconscious: Goethe's post-Kantian epistemology ANGUS NICHOLLS	87
4. The hidden agent of the self: towards an aesthetic theory of the non-conscious in German romanticism RÜDIGER GÖRNER	121
5. The real essence of human beings: Schopenhauer and the unconscious will CHRISTOPHER JANAWAY	140
6. Carl Gustav Carus and the science of the unconscious MATTHEW BELL	156
7. Eduard von Hartmann's Philosophy of the Unconscious SEBASTIAN GARDNER	173
8. Gustav Theodor Fechner and the unconscious MICHAEL HEIDELBERGER	200
9. Friedrich Nietzsche's perspectives on the unconscious MARTIN LIEBSCHER	241

vi       Contents

10. Freud and nineteenth-century philosophical sources on the unconscious GÜNTER GÖDDE	261
Epilogue: the “optional” unconscious SONU SHAMDASANI	287
Works cited	297
Index	324