A HISTORY OF POLITICAL THEORIES

FROM ROUSSEAU TO SPENCER

BY

WILLIAM ARCHIBALD DUNNING, LL.D., LITT.D.

LIEBER PROFESSOR OF HISTORY AND POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY
IN COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

New York

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY

CONTENTS

CHAPTER I

Jean Jacques Rousseau

PAGE

1. Source and Method of His Philosophy 1
2. Nature and Society 7
3. The Social Contract 16
4. Sovereignty and Law 21
5. Government 29
6. Strength and Influence of Rousseau's Work . . . 38

References 44

CHAPTER II

The Rise of Economic and Juristic Science

1. European Politics and World Politics 45
2. French Social and Moral Philosophy 50
3. Physiocrats and Economists 57
4. Adam Ferguson 65
5. The Legalists 71

References 81

CHAPTER III

The American and the French Revolution

1. General Trend of Events 82
2. American Ideas and Influence 91
3. Siéyès 100
4. Condorcet 106
5. Thomas Paine 110
6. The French Constitutions 116
7. Conclusion 126

References 129

CHAPTER IV

The German Idealists

PAGE
1. Immanuel Kant 130
2 Johann Gottlieb Fichte 137
3. Wilhelm von Humboldt 148
4. Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel 154
5. Influence of the German Idealists 166
References 170

CHAPTER V

Theories of Conservatism and Reaction

1. General Character and Influence 171
2. Edmund Burke 176
3. The Marquis de Bonald 184
4. Joseph de Maistre 190
5. Ludwig von Haller 195
References 206

CHAPTER VI

The English Utilitarians

1. Progress of Social and Political Reform 207
2. Jeremy Bentham 211
3. John Austin 224
4. John Stuart Mill 235
5. Conclusion 243
References 247

CHAPTER VII

Theories of Constitutional Government

1. The Struggle for Constitutions on the Continent . . 248
2. Types of the Realized Constitutions 253
3. Benjamin Constant: His Theory of the Royal Power . 259
4. Guizot, the Doctrinaire 263
5. Tocqueville and Realized Democracy 268
6. German Constitutional Theory: The Bundesstaat . . 278

PAGE
7. Conclusion 288
References 291

CHAPTER VIII

The Theory and Practice of Nationalism

1. The Struggles for National Independence and Unity . 292
2. Theory of the State as Sovereign Person 299
3. The Nation as a Unit of Race and Language . . . 311
4. The Nation as a Geographic Unit 316
5. Nation and Nationality 320
6. The National State 326
7. Summary and Conclusion 334
References 339

CHAPTER IX

Societarian Political Theory

1. The Rise of Socialism and of Sociology 340
2. Owen and Fourier 348
3. Saint-Simonian Doctrine 355
4. The Beginnings of Anarchism 362
5. Marxist Doctrine 371
6. Lorenz von Stein 377
7. Auguste Comte 387
8. Herbert Spencer 395
9. General Influence of Societarian Theory 402
References 408

CHAPTER X

The General Course of Political Theory . 409