

Contents

Preface, vii

Introduction: The Civil War as a Regime Question, 1
Thomas W. Merrill, Alan Levine, and James R. Stoner, Jr.

Part I: The Problem

1. The Later Jefferson and the Problem of Natural Rights, 27
Thomas W. Merrill

2. Slavery and the US Supreme Court, 48
Keith E. Whittington

3. Antebellum Natural Rights Liberalism, 74
Daniel S. Malachuk

4. Scientific Racism in Antebellum America, 98
Alan Levine

5. From Calhoun to Secession, 133
James H. Read

Part II: Hard Choices

6. Lincoln and “The Public Estimate of the Negro”: From Anti-Amalgamation to Antislavery, 175
Diana J. Schaub

7. Why Did Lincoln Go to War?, 203
Steven B. Smith

8. The Lincolnian Constitution, 226
Caleb Verbois

9. To Preserve, Protect, and Defend: The Emancipation Proclamation, 249
W. B. Allen

10. The Case of the Confederate Constitution, 273
James R. Stoner, Jr.

Part III: Pyrrhic Victories?

11. Completing the Constitution: The Reconstruction Amendments, 293

Michael Zuckert

12. The Politics of Reconstruction and the Problem of Self-Government, 320

Philip B. Lyons

13. “A School for the Moral Education of the Nation”: Frederick Douglass
on the Meaning of the Civil War, 349

Peter C. Myers

14. The South and American Constitutionalism after the Civil War, 377

Johnathan O’Neill

List of Contributors, 407

Index, 411